COMING

Now, fellows, W. drive and W. to you single new T. Carolina "look like it should of all with enthusiasm that body Columbia,..(Clarosophic) Simpson... Miller.. Buie.. W. James. L. Wardlaw has..(Clarosophic) going ten students We.. Locals..(Clarosophic) and every student We have..(Clarosophic) returned. This..(Clarosophic) have the game, and this experiment has the team that incentive and spirit that only the interest of friends can give, and has contributed largely to the success of our opponents. It has alumnus and the people of Columbia to wonder at the apathy existing here, and to lament that Carolina is not the place it was in the past. There are other sides which lack of space forbids us to consider, but we cannot refrain from one observation. The same indifference to your institution's welfare is bound to show itself in other and larger things with support of her athletic teams. Your lack of college spirit here means a lack of interest in your Alma Mater at home anywhere throughout the State, and upon your efforts to further her success depend her future attainment and success.

THE COMING TENNIS TOURNAMENT

For two years Carolina has sent tennis teams to the tournament in Greenville; and both years the teams have won second place. This year the Tennis Association is going to make a new venture. A tournament is going to be played on the University courts. Why can't Carolina win first place this year? There is no reason why we should not be first. The lovers of the game will be here and will be in fine form by the time the tournament is to be pulled off, and every student attending the University should lend what financial help he can. These players have to be counted upon about two or three days, and this will take money. Another thing that the students will be responsible for is getting out the names of every player who is going to be here. Each and every one of them will be our guests and it is up to us to keep up the reputation which Carolina so truly deserves. Let all of them return to their respective colleges wishing that they could be with us always.

THE LACK OF COLLEGE SPIRIT

Mack has been written in these column, "Carolina spirit" and "true Gamecock spirit." We have tried hard to arouse a proper college enthusiasm in bolstering up the student-body by praise, but it is with regret that we admit that the experiment has failed,—and today we shall present a few things as they are, instead of as they should be.

The football team this season has not been successful. It is true that the squad has been light, and by reason of the abolishment of the game here for several seasons previous, the players have been inexperienced. But these excuses are insufficient. In fact we have one of the very best football men in the South, and one whose interest in Carolina and whose unbroken alumnus make him an ideal coach for our team. He has struggled untriedly to develop the squad. The plays he has introduced make up for the lack in other system we have ever seen; and yet but once this season has the team put properly to the test—the second half of the game with the Georgia Medical College. Where the system of defense is that used by one of the strongest teams in the country last year, and has been pronounced by the foremost football experts as the best for meeting an opponent's attack under the new rules; and yet but once this season has our squad made its force felt—the second half of the Davidson game. What is wrong?

A Carolina "star" in her palmetto football days came many miles recently to see a game. After watching the game for some lack of time, he stood and said, "My God they haven't got the drive, the fight, in them of our old teams. And this remark drove the nail home. The team has the "Carolina grit" all right, but it lacks "the true Gamecock spirit." Why? You are going to ask; and we are going to answer.

A man struggles and fights if necessary for his college, because of his love and zeal. His college spirit is increased and fostered by the support and interest of his fellow students; and when this flags, though he will still struggle on, his enthusiasm and ardor will be lessened. Nothing is so chilling as the lack of interest in college. We had in the beginning of the season an inexperienced squad, and they needed all the support and encouragement that the student-body could give. They had not enough experience in football to love the game as a "veteran" would, and they needed the plaudit and praise of their colleagues in order to put the necessary "steam" in their work. Have you done your share?

On Saturday, we played the last game to be played here. The weather was cool and beautifully clear, but the attendance was so small that the management lost over fifty dollars. Not one third of the students were in the game, and half of the crowd was made up of our supporters in Columbia. One could walk over the campus and see more students loitering around, playing tennis, smoking pipes, cracking jokes and otherwise busily engaged than could be found on the athletic field at the last game of the season. There was a fair cross between college spirit of over half the student-body.

We have some men here who cannot afford to go to the football games, but a maximum estimate there are perhaps fifty of these. In addition to these there are about seventy-five ardent supporters who always attend, rise or fall with the game. Their interest and their indifference is the cause of the loss financially on every game played on our grounds this year; and the lack of their moral support has been a drawback from the team that incentive and spirit that only the interest of friends can give, and has contributed largely to the success of our opponents. It has alumnus and the people of Columbia to wonder at the apathy existing here, and to lament that Carolina is not the place it was in the past. There are other sides which lack of space forbids us to consider, but we cannot refrain from one observation. The same indifference to your institution's welfare is bound to show itself in other and larger things with support of her athletic teams. Your lack of college spirit here means a lack of interest in your Alma Mater at home anywhere throughout the State, and upon your efforts to further her success depend her future attainment and success.

Mr. W. C. Taylor, '06, a loyal Clar-iosophic, visited and addressed the society on last Saturday night.

The following are the programs for one and two weeks hence:

For November 14, 1908:

Declamations—Mace and D. E. Reter. Reader—Russell. Orators—M. L. Marion and Cooper. Debate. "Resolved, That the American Civil War should have been averted by compromise."

Affirmative: Jackson, Rembert, T. K. Key. Negative: Riddle, Jeffries, J. A. Marion. For November 20, 1908:

Declamations—Camak and Heirs. Reader—C. W. Sams. Orators—Bradley and Caldwell. Debate. "Resolved, That tariff revision is better than free trade."

Affirmative: Bue, Gardner, M. M. Rector. Negative: J. O. Crout, Chitty, Garland. On last Saturday night the following query was debated: "Resolved, That the qualification for voting in the Democratic primary should be the same as in the general election." Negative: Ferguson, Johnson and Sullivan. Positive: Officer, Kinard and V. E. Rector. The debate was won by the affirmative.

EUPHRADIAN

As the days are growing so much shorter, the joint assembly has decided to change the hour of meeting from 7:45 to 7:30. So let all members remember that the college bell rings at 7:15, hereafter, and society convenes at 7:30.

The debate last Saturday night on the query: "Resolved, That South Carolina should prohibit immigration," was won by the negative, represented by Messrs. J. H. Brown and J. H. Cooper.

Following are the appointments for one and two weeks hence:

For November 14:

Readers—Sharp, Simkin, Monetch. Declamations—Purse, J. B. Heyward, R. R. genotype. Subject for Extemporaneous Speak-tion would be the best solution of the negro problem."

For November 21:

Readers—J. M. Green, Tolley and Scott. Declamations—Carville, D. B. McIntyre and J. O. Sheppard. Subject for Extemporaneous Speaker—"The Solid South."

ster. Negative: Brown and Johnson. Query: "Resolved, That Congress should require corporations doing an interstate business to procure federal licenses."

S. C. UNIVERSITY 19, GA. MED. COLLEGE 5

(Continued from page 1.)

royally treated by the young men of Augusta, and thoroughly enjoyed every moment of their brief stay.

THE LINEUP.

The teams lined up thus:

Carolina in 20: J. Snipes, A. P. Craven, J. W. Davis; "Georgia 5: DesPortes, I. C., Cox, Brinkley, Wynne, I. T., Bunch, Sharpin, J. g., Lake. Marion in 20: Mckee, e., Powers Carter, r. g., Bowan Crouch, r. e., Gehrkon Murdaugh, r. e., Prince Herbert. Hammond (c) = q, h., Brinkley Izyar, l. h. b., J. A. Brown Perrin, r. h., W.W.W.Brown (c) Beeler, f. b., Griffith Geo. Butler (North Carolina) referee, Joe Holland (Clemson, umipire. Douglas McKay (Carolina), head linesman. Cad Coles (Clemson), timekeeper. Time of halves, 25 and 20 minutes.