CHRISTIE BENET ADDRESSES Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Benet, Who is Well Known and Admired by Carolina Students, Spoke on the Choosing of Vocations.

Mr. Christie Benet, known and admired by every Carolina man, was the speaker Wednesday night at the weekly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. in Flinn hall. Mr. Benet is a Carolina man, though Virginia would like to share the honor, and his deeds of valor on the gridiron have been part of the history of the University. His kindness in addressing the Y. M. C. A. but goes to illustrate his attitude toward aught that pertains to the welfare of his alma mater. The cheerfulness with which each year he helps to coach Carolina’s football team has won for him the gratitude of every member of the student body.

After expressing his pleasure at being able to talk to a body of University men, he said that the greatest danger in life is not having high and clean ideals. Every individual should erect for himself a standard of living; should take from his acquaintances, or create in his imagination, a character worthy of emulation, and bend all his efforts to the attainment of this ideal. These standards should be high—the inspiration of all our achievements, for the stream of life can rise no higher than its fountain.

MOOT COURT.

A very interesting case-State vs. John Burns—was tried Wednesday night before his Honor, Professor E. M. Rucker, and resulted in a mistrial, the jury being unable to agree upon a verdict.

The prosecution was represented by Messrs. M. A. Sinuler and J. B. Murphy, and the defense by Messrs. L. K. Jennings and W. C. McChin.

The facts in the case were very interesting, the State making out a strong case of circumstantial evidence; not, however, by such a preponderance of the testimony that no reasonable doubt could be left in the mind of the jury, as the verdict of a mistrial indicated. It was gratifying to note the attendance on this occasion, and an invitation is extended to all who will to be out next Wednesday night. Messrs. Goggans and Gaston will then represent the plaintiff, and Messrs. Johnson and Alexander the defendant.

Mr. Robert M. Cooper, formerly manager of the football and baseball team at the University of South Carolina, was a visitor to Columbia this week. Bob said he was a farmer and here for the corn show.

Hutchinson of the Law Department passed the recent bar examination and consequently retired from college. He will make his home in Rock Hill.

Bill Fellows, class of ’14, who has been at his home for the past month, was on the campus this week. It is regretted very much that "Bill" is thinking of withdrawing from college because of an illness from studies. It is hoped that he will return with us after the holidays.

C. R. Kilgore has gone to his home in Bishopville where he will stay a few days for medical treatment.

B. J. White, first honor graduate of the University of South Carolina, is in the city. Mr. White is secretary to Justice C. A. Woods of the South Carolina Supreme Court.

J. E. Simkins, better known as "Mac," is a visitor on the campus. Mr. Simkins is very popular with the students and is always a welcome arrival.

Dan Crawford, after an illness of several weeks, is again on the campus. Mr. Crawford is a member of the class of 1915.

John Mills was called home last week because of the illness and death of his brother. It is hoped that he will soon return.

At a recent student body meeting it was moved and passed that a committee be appointed to represent students before trustees in asking that Dr. Josiah Morse be retained on faculty after Dr. Moore returned. Dr. Morse has many friends here and it is hoped that the movement will be successful.

Joe English, member of the class of 1913, has retired from college to accept a position in the city. English was well-known and popular among the men of Carolina.

"Ragi's" Marshall of Sumter, who after being sick at the infirmary has been at his home for the past few weeks, is on the campus again.

Dr. George Wauchop, head of the department of English at the University, is writing a series of interesting articles for the Southern School News, published in Columbia. Several of the articles have already appeared and several more are to follow. Dr. Wauchop is a brilliant writer, and no doubt the students will find the articles most interesting.
