EMINENT THEOLOGIAN ADDRESSED STUDENTS

Dr. Guerry Spoke in Chapel Sunday Night.

The Greatest Man is He Who Has Done Most to Help His Fellowman.

On last Sunday night Bishop William A. Guerry delivered a most interesting address to the students of the colleges of Columbia in chapel.

After paying a tribute to the college Young Men's Christian Association, he announced as his text: "Whether he that sits at meat or he that serves." In a characteristic style he outlined to his audience his conception of the words of the text.

In part he said "that Christ defined greatness in terms of service. He would define the greatest man not as the greatest author, poet, etc., but the man who is the greatest citizen, the man who has done more to help his fellowman. We conceive of the president as the greatest man because he is the highest servant of the service. Service is the keynote of all religion. Christ came into this world to serve and because He served He saved. One of the most striking scenes in the life of our Savior is that scene we have of Him washing the feet of His disciples on the eve of His crucifixion. He did this menial act in order to teach them a lesson of service. Service should be the keynote in every man's life. All of us have a definite place to fill in this life of ours. But the most important thing is to find what God wants us to do."

"The greatest comfort that comes to any man in his last days should be the thought that he has made the world better by having lived in it. To feel that somewhere there is stored away contributions made by him and that these contributions will live after him.

"Vocation is always preceded by consecration. David was consecrated long before he was chosen ruler of the Israelites. Consecration is the offering of one's life to God. Vocation is the calling for which one is consecrated. Some are consecrated who are not serviceable. In the instance where the 150 men who volunteered for the foreign work at a recent student volunteer meeting, many were turned down because of the failure to qualify for one reason or another. Consecration is not enough for a man, he must be qualified."

"Our Savior prepared himself 30 years to serve only three. In this we have a wonderful lesson taught in qualification. The world needs men who are fully equipped for service."

INFIRMARY NOTES.

G. D. Varn, who has been in the infirmary for some weeks with a blood-poisoned foot, has gone to his home at Moclise.

S. B. Owen has been in the infirmary the past week.

I. A. Monash was on the sick list a day or two.

J. M. Graham has been in the infirmary this week.

THE PRESS MEETING ENDS WITH BALL

College Editors Close Convention With Frivolity.

NEWSPAPER IDEA DOMINANT

In Everything, Final Festivity Suggestive of Serious Work of Young Association.

The initial convention of the Southern College Press Association came to a close with the first annual ball of the association in the gymnasium of the University of South Carolina Thursday night, April 25. The dance was given in honor of the delegates by the German Club of the University, and there were present 20 couples.

Decorations, Cards and Favors.

The walls of the gymnasium were decorated to the wall's edge with a row of newspapers and magazines suggesting the press atmosphere, the best decor being by Student Life in particular. The favors were miniature Carolinians, and contained 12 dances with three extras. The favors were newspaper stories of the dance.

These Were There.

The delegates in whose honor the dance was given were: Breec D. Stephenson, University of North Carolina; Robt. B. Jackson, College of William and Mary; J. T. Wolff, University of Georgia; J. H. Kinget, Clemson College; J. W. Haresey, Clemson College. The couples were John Hoye and Miss Rebecca Walker, C. F. W.; Frank Sims and Miss Margaret Green, Guy Maxwell and Miss Minnie Williams, Jr.; O. W. and Miss Belle Piz-Simmons, Whitner Carv and Miss Louise Beaudes, Sohny Filin and Miss Dorothy Eldridge, Ed Nott and Miss Elizabeth Woodson, Duncan Hayward and Miss Polly Snowden, Brother Woodrow and Miss Reaux Jones, Tom Boucher and Miss Mary Wells, Craig Waring, and Miss Elizabeth Barton, Lyon Whitner and Miss Katie Graham Thompson, Reddy Metts and Miss Nan Walker, Pete Jones and Miss Frances Mayfield, Billy Cappelmann and Miss Raven Smink, Grady Goggans and Miss Sarah Howes, John Hughes Cooper and Miss (Continued on Page Five.)