At the Reception

The mid-winter reception was a glowing success despite the fact that one of the parties especially invited did not put in its appearance. Of course, the success of any reception depends much upon the crowd present, yet less than six people were present from one of the colleges in the city. While we would not mention the name of the institution, we will venture to say that its small representation enjoyed the social affair.

The date of this reception was changed twice, so as not to conflict with the dates of the other colleges, yet this institution did not cooperate by sending a full representation. At their reception given during examinations, Carolina sent a fair representation, in spite of the impending “literacy test.” Why this certain college did not come out, we do not know, but now we see no other excuse than disinterest.

It is reported that some ten or twelve organizations, that this particular college preferred the “movies.” We are searching the dictionaries for the antonym of cooperation.

ATTEND CHAPEL

A new arrangement has just been completed whereby the students are to sit in chapel by classes. This is an excellent plan and should encourage a larger attendance at chapel. Many of us do not realize that chapel at college was created as a sacred rather than a compulsory meeting. Of late it is considered as absolutely unnecessary, according to the poor attendance. Chapel is one of the greatest things at college. This daily gathering gives the students a chance to see and mingle with one another. This is an end unattainable by larger universities. After all, associations are for fellow students is the chief benefit derived from college life, and for this reason solely we favor attendance at chapel.

Here we give in brief the few reasons why we should attend chapel. There one hears all the important announcements made. There the students gather in what is supposed to be a representative student body; but late there have been very few at these meetings. Chapel is a place to form associations which you will cherish throughout life.

Last, but not least, the attendance is a sacred duty.

True it is that our chapel is not a marble palace, but since its renovation it is good enough for another year. Law men, especialmente students, and academicians should attend chapel regularly.

SHOULD JOIN S. I. A.

Should Carolina join the S. I. A.?}

A. A? Coach Edgerton, Alumni Manager Gunter and Coach Sid Smith think so. Luke Hill, the captain of this year’s football team, a man who knows all about Carolina athletics, says it is the only logical thing to do. It is certain that Carolina is progressing, very slowly in athletics if she is progressing at all. Much of this is due to the fact that Carolina has no definite organizing rules to follow. The coaches are compelled to spend their time on a few men who are eligible to play in only one or two games. Three or four players are eligible for this game, ineligible in that. This state of affairs does not give the coaches a fair chance to get at a definite number of men who are able to play in all games.

Carolina plays mostly S. I. A. teams. They rule out our men and dictate to us. Carolina obeys. One of the leading men in the S. I. A. said that they did all they could against Carolina because she should be a member of the S. I. A. If the Prexies were a member she could dictate to other colleges who are not members of the S. I. A., but still better, she could play only S. I. A. teams. It is true that we do not play many colleges in baseball that belong to the S. I. A., but we could get equally as good games with teams that are members of the S. I. A. A. If the Prexies were a member of the S. I. A. A., otherwise they would not be allowed to do so.

It is only a question of which association we are going to join. The S. I. A. seems to be the best.
