The Gamecock

The Gamecock was defeated by the opposing team and my team coach by Metzger. He puts an irresistible push, a go-to an inner determination to win in a team. We believe that Carolina has found in Metzger the man she has been looking for, and wishing for for a long time. He puts his whole being into his work. He does not believe in going half the way. It's all or nothing or stay where you are with him. He expects every man to put himself into the game, and if he doesn't, he gets out.

To look at Metzger's eyes when he is coaching, we are reminded of a wild horse of Arizona. They blaze like coals of fire. This fire, innate in him, will soon take root in the team will become one irresistible force in a game. The result is evident. It will play the game, and will play the game to win, and it will win.

Concerning Cooperation.

We have returned to Carolina this year with the bright prospect in our history for a great year. We are indeed much impressed by the new spirit that envelopes our campus this year as we return with a determination to maintain those standards and to promote those ideals which have constantly been the endeavor of this historic old institution. Having had portrayed to us very forcibly the need of a greater college spirit, we have come to realize that this new spirit must be kept keenly alive.

It is gratifying to see the favorable outlook for better athletics at Carolina, and other college activities correspondingly. We must reach the conclusion that a cooperative spirit has made such an outlook possible. Cooperation on the part of alumni, and faculty, cannot fail to bring about the desired results.

Let every student of the University undertake to do his part at all times toward building a greater Carolina. Our alumni have shown us what cooperation can do, and it is up to the students to show a like spirit. Get behind the football team, the "V"; boost the literary societies and all other organizations, and, better still, make every effort to put down friction of any sort that may arise. Let's all pull together, and it will be surprising to note the quick results.

NEGRO MUST PROVE WORTH.

I am a believer in man's potentialsities, it matters not from what standpoint, religious, ethical, social or what not. And I cannot believe that man of whatever race, can expand himself unless he uplifts himself from formulas, creeds and the like. Man is necessarily a

We knew that team would be irresistible all the time. There with the push of the offensive; there with the "throw 'em back" on the defensive.

Speaking of brick walls, it's a wonder those Terriers didn't dash their brains out against that brick wall formed by those fighting Gamecocks.

With the backing of the student body, which was given in full measure in last Saturday's game, that Metzger-coached football team can't help but win.

The result of the Clemson-P. C. game doesn't speak well for the Tigers. We believe their motto was a clean sweep. They are falling down on that high horse early in the game. But for a turn of fate they would have met defeat. We are not boasting any, but we believe that Tiger growth won't be heard much from after the Clemson-Carolina game.

Outweighed almost to man to man, the Gamecocks outplayed the Terriers at every point in last Saturday's game. It was speed versus weight, and speed won. Weight counts, but it counts very little without speed. The Terriers had one man, Turpinseed, who developed spurs of speed at times, but there were few and far between. The Gamecocks didn't give them a chance.

A man of powe, of push, of strong determination, a man who, tho he bawls you out, is greatly liked, a man containing all the qualities that go to make up a great team, and a real man, this is Metzger.

With those qualities in the man who is Carolina's football coach at a new five years, how can Carolina have any other than a winning team? She must have a winning team. A coach like Metzger will force them.

Metzger goes at the game with a growl, and if the men don't do the same, his growl at them. Soon Metzger's fighting
