

Tacky Party.

The "tacky" party given last Thursday evening at Prison Hall by the Women's Auxiliary was from every standpoint aモンスター success. The faculty, their families and students turned out in large numbers, expecting to have a big time, and were not disappointed. From the moment the grand march, headed by Dean and Mrs. Baker, began until the disappearance of all the "tacks," there was the old-time spirit of all the many "tackies."

One of the features of the evening was a prank given by the Y. M. C. A., a wedding in which the following participants took part: Secretary Bell, the minister; Mr. David Gaston, the bridegroom; Mr. Kelly Jofe, the bride, and Miss Jim Wilson, the bridegroom's wife. The Y. W. C. A. "stunt was a wild west film starring Miss Mae Wilson, who was imported by the following east. Minor Ross Hayward, Miss Rachel Meridith, Catherine Floyd and Elizabeth Beasley. The applause for both of these stunts was very liberal."

The instructions of Secretory Bell to "fix up 'tacky' had been so faithfully carried out that the judges experienced to small amount of difficulty in deciding who most deserved the prizes. However, with the aid of the other guests, they finally reached the conclusion that Miss Mary Prosser should receive the coveted award for being the tackiest girl. "Next," Jenkins that for the tackiest man, and Mr. Pat Adams and his husband, Wilson and Jofe, that for the tackiest couple.

When the stars were over the prizes awarded and the punch eaten in the auditorium, pink lemonade and cakes of an indescribable nature were served in the rooms where the new rugs are, until the hunger and thirst of everybody bandle to the past. As it was then about eleven o'clock and Friday wasn't a holi-day, the guests speedily departed, each sincerely hoping that the party would be repeated next year or at some earlier date.

State Bar Association Meets on Campus.

The South Carolina Bar Association held its sessions for 1923 in the Pe-tergrove Building on this campus. The association opened Thursday, Feb. 13th, at 4 o'clock. On Friday all law classes were suspended and the association held a morning and an evening ses-sion. About 250 representatives were present. Several notable speakers appeared before the association, but the main speaker for this year's session was Mr. Mix, Dean of the University of Pennsylvania's Law School, and a tit-ure of this state.

The students assured the law stu-dents of the University by giving them a short talk on Saturday morning. "Joree" Wheeler Elected Captain.

Joe E. Wheeler, better known as "Joree," since last May and for most of the years one of Columbia's best was elected a member of the Black C. men before Christmas to captain the Gamecocks' 1923 football eleven.

During the past season "Joree" had the distinction of being picked by Evans and his All-SC team for first place. "Joree" captur-ing the team and looking the look, we are already building high hopes for a big season next fall.
