CLAUDIA BAILEY
CHosen EDITor of CAROLINIAN

TWO HEATED MEETINGS

Godshall is Business Manager and Walker Will Circulate Publication

After three days of political bickering and rush meetings of girls' organizations, Claudia Bailey, a propagandist in English, was elected editor of the Carolinian for the first term of office. After several weeks, the new editors, who swept into office on the heels of the female college senior, are feeling the pressure of the world at the end of their college careers.

The contest during the banquet and for the dance was nourished by an oral genre of Carolina humor.

The banquet menu was as follows: Gourmet Cocktail Hearts of Jerky (with hot and cold almonds), Roast Young Goose Red Current Jelly, Green Peas Au Gratin Potatoes Head lettuce with Boston dressing, Neapolitan Ice Cream, Assorted Cakes

The committee wishes to acknowledge the services of Mr. Co and Mr. Crow, of the Jefferson Hotel, Mr. C. T. Jargon, and the Shands Green Houses who, through their cooperation and efficiency, made the banquet possible.

The Junior class overcame the handicap of two absentees by voting to elect Mr. C. Bailey to the editorial board, despite the lack of cooperation from the class as a whole. At a meeting of the Co-ed Association, the following officers were elected for next year: Phyllis Lindsay, president; Catharine Phillips, vice-president; Marjorie Johnson, secretary.

Charge: We Won't Forget

Thomas Editor
The Gamecock
For Next Year

At the last meeting of the Junior-Senior banquet, the banquet was held in the hall room of the Jefferson Hotel. About 150 were present to enjoy the banquet, the pro-gam, and the dance which followed. Despite the trouble that the committee encountered in putting the affair together, it was a complete success in every sense of the word.

After Dr. Melson's death is seemed almost impossible to think of what his place would be, but it had been his request that the position be held, and it would be vacant in the University that should not.

Across, almost, the whole of Carolina was held in deep mourning in the memory of those attending.

The ball room converted into a fairy garden, with bamboo vines and gray moss overhead. Shaded lights of many colors gave a soft glow to light the hall. The walls were banked with pine boughs. The banquet table was arranged in the form of a block C, and decorated with pink and white programs held bright field duties.

Mr. B. L. President, was present the morning, the Junior class, acted as Toastmaster. The program was as follows:

Invocation—R. G. Dabney
To the Seniors.—J. R. Patte
Response—Margaret Lancaster
Xylophone Solo—Carole Arute
To the Seniors.—Ralph Arlcone
Response—Seybold
Dance—Harlequin and Columbia.
A word to the Seniors—Dr. Baker.
Dinner—The following were honor guests of the eve-
ing:

All of the talking people praised the food and the music, and the company that we had at the banquet in the world at the end of their college careers.

The contest during the banquet and for the dance was nourished by an oral genre of Carolina humor.

The banquet menu was as follows: Gourmet Cocktail Hearts of Jerky (with hot and cold almonds), Roast Young Goose Red Current Jelly, Green Peas Au Gratin Potatoes Head lettuce with Boston dressing, Neapolitan Ice Cream, Assorted Cakes

The committee wishes to acknowledge the services of Mr. Co and Mr. Crow, of the Jefferson Hotel, Mr. C. T. Jargon, and the Shands Green Houses who, through their cooperation and efficiency, made the banquet possible.

The Junior class overcame the handicap of two absentees by voting to elect Mr. C. Bailey to the editorial board, despite the lack of cooperation from the class as a whole. At a meeting of the Co-ed Association, the following officers were elected for next year: Phyllis Lindsay, president; Catharine Phillips, vice-president; Marjorie Johnson, secretary.

The committee wishes to acknowledge the services of Mr. Co and Mr. Crow, of the Jefferson Hotel, Mr. C. T. Jargon, and the Shands Green Houses who, through their cooperation and efficiency, made the banquet possible.

The Junior class overcame the handicap of two absentees by voting to elect Mr. C. Bailey to the editorial board, despite the lack of cooperation from the class as a whole. At a meeting of the Co-ed Association, the following officers were elected for next year: Phyllis Lindsay, president; Catharine Phillips, vice-president; Marjorie Johnson, secretary.

The committee wishes to acknowledge the services of Mr. Co and Mr. Crow, of the Jefferson Hotel, Mr. C. T. Jargon, and the Shands Green Houses who, through their cooperation and efficiency, made the banquet possible.

The Junior class overcame the handicap of two absentees by voting to elect Mr. C. Bailey to the editorial board, despite the lack of cooperation from the class as a whole. At a meeting of the Co-ed Association, the following officers were elected for next year: Phyllis Lindsay, president; Catharine Phillips, vice-president; Marjorie Johnson, secretary.

The committee wishes to acknowledge the services of Mr. Co and Mr. Crow, of the Jefferson Hotel, Mr. C. T. Jargon, and the Shands Green Houses who, through their cooperation and efficiency, made the banquet possible.

The Junior class overcame the handicap of two absentees by voting to elect Mr. C. Bailey to the editorial board, despite the lack of cooperation from the class as a whole. At a meeting of the Co-ed Association, the following officers were elected for next year: Phyllis Lindsay, president; Catharine Phillips, vice-president; Marjorie Johnson, secretary.

The committee wishes to acknowledge the services of Mr. Co and Mr. Crow, of the Jefferson Hotel, Mr. C. T. Jargon, and the Shands Green Houses who, through their cooperation and efficiency, made the banquet possible.

The Junior class overcame the handicap of two absentees by voting to elect Mr. C. Bailey to the editorial board, despite the lack of cooperation from the class as a whole. At a meeting of the Co-ed Association, the following officers were elected for next year: Phyllis Lindsay, president; Catharine Phillips, vice-president; Marjorie Johnson, secretary.

The committee wishes to acknowledge the services of Mr. Co and Mr. Crow, of the Jefferson Hotel, Mr. C. T. Jargon, and the Shands Green Houses who, through their cooperation and efficiency, made the banquet possible.

The Junior class overcame the handicap of two absentees by voting to elect Mr. C. Bailey to the editorial board, despite the lack of cooperation from the class as a whole. At a meeting of the Co-ed Association, the following officers were elected for next year: Phyllis Lindsay, president; Catharine Phillips, vice-president; Marjorie Johnson, secretary.

The committee wishes to acknowledge the services of Mr. Co and Mr. Crow, of the Jefferson Hotel, Mr. C. T. Jargon, and the Shands Green Houses who, through their cooperation and efficiency, made the banquet possible.

The Junior class overcame the handicap of two absentees by voting to elect Mr. C. Bailey to the editorial board, despite the lack of cooperation from the class as a whole. At a meeting of the Co-ed Association, the following officers were elected for next year: Phyllis Lindsay, president; Catharine Phillips, vice-president; Marjorie Johnson, secretary.