The Fire Danger
Fire has again threatened the buildings on the campus. Last week the library had a narrow escape and The Gamecock commented upon it. One day last fall in the identical case threatened Rutledge College. It is time this came to a halt. The cause can be traced to negligent careless somewhere. A little foresight and care could have prevented both cases.

We notice that trash boxes are placed against the rear of nearly every building on the campus. It is so easy for this trash to catch fire and next time there may be one too near to extinguish it. This prevention is worth more than a pound of cure, so we ask those in charge of the University grounds to remove these trash boxes from where their proximity as a place where possible fire will do no harm.

THE FORUM
Student Answers Alumnus

Editor, The Gamecock, Columbia, South Carolina.

Dear Sir:

I will greatly appreciate space in your paper for the purpose of replying to the letter in The Forum of how your paper is regarded to "Weak Cheer".

I presume, and I guess that is what he meant in the statement, that the writer of the article was never a cheer-leader or so assistant while he was a student at our noble institution.

The authoress called attention to some remarks made by an "outsider" who attended the Carolina-Chemn game in regards to the cheering of the two schools. No doubt there are enough of the "outsiders" among us to form a number of "cheerleaders" who purchase tickets at different rates and sit back and have their dollar and sell them for the price of three to six dol-

colors as seen

Library Extension

It is indeed gratifying to all interested in the general welfare and prosperity of the University of South Carolina to see that work on the library extension has begun. This will fill a long felt necessity and the benefit to be derived is invaluable. The crowded condition of the library will be refused. The capacity will be increased at least two hundred per cent, but the advantages will be increased many times. We thank the legislature for this work and wish to say to that body that every one of them and the people of the State of South Caro-

Thanks to Orangeburg

In behalf of the student body of the University of South Carolina, The Gamecock takes this opportunity to thank the City of Orangeburg and the Orangeburg County Fair Association for its kind invitation to the University to become their guest for the game.

Carolina- Citadel football game and for the extension of the meet to the current term of the University. The visit to Orangeburg is one of the most anticipated and enjoyable events of the Universe.

We wish to say that we have never met nothing by a more hospitable and generous folk than the citizens of Orangeburg. For all the years that we have been making this annual visit we have been unable to speak any words except those of praise and appreciation and that to little city.

We hope that the friendly relations existing between the Carolina student body and the Orangeburg public will continue. So, with many thanks for a great time we will look forward to another visit next year.

Make Every "Howdy" Day

"Howdy" Day is a new feature at the University of Kentucky. This idea has been inaugurated there by the men's Pan-Hellenic Council and the observance of "Howdy" Day is to be a monthly occurrence.

The Gamecock agrees with the "Kentucky Kernel" that the idea is good but wishes to go one better and urge that at the University of South Carolina we observe "Howdy" day every day and on Sunday, too.

Let us all join in to do this and make the campus the most friendly and "most speaking" in the South. Everybody is everybody's friend, and friends should speak to each other. Friends of this type should never be off speaking.

It is an old established custom at Caro-

The only way to do it. A kind word of greeting costs nothing and may bring returns.

The friend everybody is the happiest man on the campus. Try to be that man; be with us and we will be with you.
