Students Urged To Begin Essays

For Bates Medal

Essays On Literary Subject Must Be Submitted by May 7

Students interested in trying for the Bates Medal are urged to begin work on their essays immediately, Fred. R. Norwood announced yesterday.

The manuscripts, consisting of 3,000 words or more, and dealing with any fairly serious literary subject, must be in by May 7. Any person attending the University may submit articles, either himself or through winning articles, in past years, have been printed in The Colleoni.

The medal was won last year by Mary A. Hare.

Announcement of the writer, and presentation of the medal, will be made at the dinner by the dean during Commencement. A committee of judges, not connected with the English department, will read and discuss the essays submitted before making their decision.

Professor Norwood has expressed the wish that more students participate in the contest this year than last. The medal is probably the finest given on the campus, rendered possible by the late Dr. W. C. Bates, who left a legacy of $3,000.00 to the English department, proceeds from which would purchase the medal, a yearly award.

The presentation has been made annually for 20 or 30 years, and was originated to encourage literary effort among students. The medal is engraved with the name of winner and donor.

Dr. Bates was an alumnus of the University, and served several years on the Board of Trustees.

Students desiring further information may communicate with Professor Norwood, or Dr. G. A. Wainwright, head of the English department.

Delegating Winthrop
For Oratorical Contest

Would it do no one more good, if it were adopted as a general rule that funds be spared from the student treasury if they could be acquired in no other way. Many students opposed the amendment, declaring that the money which the debate committee would save in that way would be used for a class picnic or something of the sort. The amendment was carried by a vote of 10 to 5.

President Hare opposed the amendment, declaring that the students were not acquainted with the cost of the debate yearbook, and that the amount spent on the yearbook would be so small that it could be acquired in no other way. President Hare asked that the amendment be reconsidered, and that the debate yearbook be sold at a higher price. The amendment was carried by a vote of 10 to 5.

Representing the University at the Association meeting will be T. D. E. R.E., a junior, who will be accompanied by the debate team.
