Honor Code
Is Changed
Regarding Blue Books
Students Will Purchase Books
And Return Them to Pro- fessor According To Plan

Changes in the method of securing examination books are outlined in the letter below from the Joint Honor Committee.

Student Body and Faculty:

During the first ten days of each semester the instructor will take in the members of each class, in the approximate number and kind of Blue Books required in each course during the semester. Every student will purchase from the Book Store the number indicated and turn them over to the instructor, who will then see them distributed to his students at once.

"The Joint Honor Council wishes to call the attention of the faculty to the new procedure for the issuance of Blue Books, and to ask you to co-operate by collecting from each one of the classes during the next ten days an adequate supply of all books for the semester in each class.

"The Book Room will sell the surplus books at four for a nickel, and the examination site books at two for a nickel, but during the first five days of each semester only. This change will permit the Book Room the necessity of extra help at the Book Store. We feel sure that the students will appreciate this arrangement and that the smaller-sized books adequate for all purposes.""
