McKissick Reports Conference Action

(Continued from Page One)

The proposal by President Boardman of V. T. I. that all rules in the student body be removed from the by-laws so that each institution might determine its own rules was advocated by Professor Elbert G. Crow, chairman of the University of North Carolina committee, and by Professor Harry H. Sanger, chairman of the University of Alabama committee. Dr. Crow stated that the University of North Carolina had been considering this plan for several years and that it was now ready to submit it to the student body for a vote. Professor Sanger said that the University of Alabama had been considering a similar proposal and that it was also ready to submit it to the student body for a vote.

The proposal by President Boardman of V. T. I. that the student body be allowed to amend its own by-laws was also advocated by Professor Elbert G. Crow, chairman of the University of North Carolina committee, and by Professor Harry H. Sanger, chairman of the University of Alabama committee. Dr. Crow stated that the University of North Carolina had been considering this plan for several years and that it was now ready to submit it to the student body for a vote. Professor Sanger said that the University of Alabama had been considering a similar proposal and that it was also ready to submit it to the student body for a vote.

The proposal by President Boardman of V. T. I. that the student body be allowed to amend its own by-laws was also advocated by Professor Elbert G. Crow, chairman of the University of North Carolina committee, and by Professor Harry H. Sanger, chairman of the University of Alabama committee. Dr. Crow stated that the University of North Carolina had been considering this plan for several years and that it was now ready to submit it to the student body for a vote. Professor Sanger said that the University of Alabama had been considering a similar proposal and that it was also ready to submit it to the student body for a vote.

The proposal by President Boardman of V. T. I. that the student body be allowed to amend its own by-laws was also advocated by Professor Elbert G. Crow, chairman of the University of North Carolina committee, and by Professor Harry H. Sanger, chairman of the University of Alabama committee. Dr. Crow stated that the University of North Carolina had been considering this plan for several years and that it was now ready to submit it to the student body for a vote. Professor Sanger said that the University of Alabama had been considering a similar proposal and that it was also ready to submit it to the student body for a vote.