Negro Wins Test Case

Supreme Court Rule On Plan Of Missourian

When a negro applied for admission to the University last spring, he was not considered of full standing, and the University of the State of Missouri was denied the right to consider the facts of his case. But he had the right to be considered of the same standing when he applied to the University of the State of Missouri.

This was a test case for negroes admitted to the University of the State of Missouri, and it was decided by the Supreme Court of the United States that negroes were admitted to the University of the State of Missouri, and that negroes were entitled to be considered of the same standing when they applied to the University of the State of Missouri.

The Supreme Court, in a 7-to-2 decision Monday, October 23, reversed the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which had sustained the action of the University of the State of Missouri, and in a 7-to-2 decision Monday, October 23, reversed the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, which had sustained the action of the University of the State of Missouri.

Group Exams Abolished

By Action Of USC Faculty

Group examinations in all subjects will be abolished by action of the Faculty Monday afternoon, December 16.

The faculty action stems from a temporary decision made last fall, which was based on the recommendation of the committee on the subject of the examination of the student body.

Dean E. F. Bradley expressed his approval of the action, saying "The temporary decision was approved by the faculty, and I think it will do a great deal to improve the examination system."

Bettea Sees Rosy Future

Speaker Hopes For Success Of Democracy

Despite the gloomy conditions prevailing in the world today, Bettea is optimistic about the future of democracy, as indicated in an address to the members of the University and the Community in the second story of the students' hall last week.

"The future will be the best of all possible worlds," Bettea said. "We have been through many hardships and trials, but we have always come out on top."
