Because it is planned to be a large scale operation, the operation of the commission will be an important part of the University of South Carolina's year-end campaign.

"This year," said Dr. L. D. Herbert, president of the University of South Carolina, "is the time for us to reach out to the alumni and friends of the University and ask them to participate in our program of expansion."

The University of South Carolina has the largest alumni association in the state and is well known for its strong support of the University.

The goal of the campaign is to raise $1 million for the University's general fund and $1 million for special projects.

The campaign will be conducted through the mail and by personal visits to the homes of alumni and friends.

The alumni association is planning a series of special events, including a dinner dance and a golf tournament, to kick off the campaign.

The campaign is being directed by Dr. L. D. Herbert, president of the University of South Carolina, and Dr. L. D. Herbert, president of the Board of Visitors.

The campaign will be supported by the alumni association, the University of South Carolina Foundation, and the University of South Carolina Student Association.

The campaign will be conducted in cooperation with the University of South Carolina Alumni Association and the University of South Carolina Foundation.

The campaign is being conducted under the direction of Dr. L. D. Herbert, president of the University of South Carolina, and Dr. L. D. Herbert, president of the Board of Visitors.

The campaign is being conducted with the cooperation of the University of South Carolina Alumni Association and the University of South Carolina Foundation.
