GAMECOCK NINE MEETS SPARMTANS AT THREE P.M.

Carolina Battery

Michigan State to Field Experienced Team on Davis Diamond This Afternoon

Meeks Elected Block Prexy

The Gamecocks had to turn in a meeting of the current semester at March 15th in order to elect new officers and discuss future plans. Four officers for the present season are: President, Bryant Moore, vice-president, Bob O'Hara, secretary, Jim Huddleston; treasurer, Jim Knott.

The election of these officers is an annual meeting of the team, and the election of new officers is necessary in order to keep the team active.

In addition to these officers, the team also elects a new head coach each year. The head coach is responsible for the overall direction of the team and is usually chosen from among the most experienced and successful former players.

The Gamecocks are known for their strong defense and their ability to play both offense and defense effectively. They have a long history of success in the sport and are considered one of the top teams in the nation.

In conclusion, the election of new officers is an important event for the Gamecocks and is a testament to their commitment to the sport and their dedication to excellence on the field.
