Prof. Kulcinski Speaks At Iro

Dr. L. E. Kulcinski of the department of hygiene was guest speaker at the annual Iro high school athletic award banquet last Thursday. The banquet was given in honor of the boys and girls who had served in football and basketball. School band members and their wives, faculty, and parents were present.

Dr. Kulcinski's address approached sportmanship through the temporary altruistic values it produces and stressed the psychological impact upon one's character, which he called wholesome personality, or the permanent intrinsic values of rewards. He stressed the intrinsic values that he emphasized the importance of a rule of conduct to meet the problems of everyday life.

It's really more music: Faster, more popular class music. Thus, I like the way it is in the school.

WUSC is very appreciative of the interest shown in this survey and will endeavor to abide by the recommendations of the listeners. Good (sit right): "Read right here, Joe, while I go and pay our expenses."

Fred (ten minutes later): "Boy, I've been looking all over for you so I could give you your paycheck and thanks." (Hassler)

He called his girl basketball be- cause that's where he wouldn't play ball without a diamond.
