Meet The Gamecocks

BY CARROLL GRAY

(Editor’s Note: This article is the fifth in a series in which a member of the varsity is featured each week. Next week—Richard Loman.)

However, in familiar with the "Minute Men" of early America who braved fire and water to defend life and limb. And yet it was in Carolina that the "Minute Men" of 1961 Gamecock fans with little regard for life and limb, tore through Carolina football and those early Revolutionary War heroes.

A popular "Minute Man" is HARRY CROSBY. He was a senior, tall, rangy, South Carolina's home. Playing his high school football for this year's squad, he attended the notice of Warren Ganz, then football coach, and the openly half back was signed to a

Making his debut in the fall of 1958, weighing 155 pounds, Crosby gained the most power for the hook-and-hitch attack for four years, he has gained weight two pounds and claims that his speed has helped a lot.

If he was not a rather small tight 5-9, 185 pounder, his speed and determination make up for this. The type of speed that the quick snap on the inside. His desire to "hit)

Providing the 1,400-Carolina football game at Carolina Stadium this past Saturday, the varsity soccer team attracted a squad made up of forwards and transfer numbers (credits for varsity status removed next season). Characterized by the spirit and a desire to "beat the record" the squad logged a 2-1 win.

White defeat is not a new experience this year, but at this time it merely emphasized the fact that last year's contest was different. Charles E. Peet, Tom Wofford, and Frank Beach, among the many excellent possibilities for the 1962 squad, coming back from this year's varsity will be back to firm, Tom Wofford, and Fred Joen, to be joined by Bob Weiler, Bob Beach, Bob Robinson, Bob Klines, Bob Jones, and Bob Phillips from the non-varsity units.

This year's soccer teams, the first in the University's history, have been named a part of the University's, but only own players on the varsity squad had experience before this year. Through basically a sound defensive clinch, the Gamecocks have maintained the strong pattern of the previous conference and, as usual, from N.C. State and Duke. The recurring schedule of the past years promises a match bj.
