Pre-Registration Shortens Enrollment Procedure

Students Scheduled Heaviest On Monday

BY JO ANN COKER

A five-day pre-registration period ends today at Carolina with the majority of the 6,000 students who plan to return for the spring semester.

Pre-registration enabled many continuing students to enroll in spring semester classes in advance of registration January 29. Classes were maintained during the period, but students were tentatively scheduled for classes during free time and schedule changes when faculty members were available.

One disadvantage of the system was that it was discovered that students were getting classes in order to register the course, time, and professors they wanted.

Student Opinions

Student opinions seem to be that pre-registration was a good idea, especially for the returning students who are familiar with the college. However, it did help the faculty, who suffered under a double load of registrations and classes.

Dr. Reed R. Godfrey, director of admissions and registration, said disadvantages of USC pre-registration are that students don't have enough time to confer with their advisors, and the final calls for enrollment are too late in the same group.

While using the five-day period, students were trying to enroll in registering large numbers of students who will be returning, according to Dr. Godfrey.

Class Assignments

It is believed that a closer association of students and faculty aid students' achievement of the goals that were achieved during the registration.

The grant to USC is the largest in South Carolina history.

National Science Foundation

Inelligent Faith Week Begins Soon

Intelligent Faith Week, formerly a religious Stephen Week, will be held on campus February 5-9.

If any organization or group would like a guest speaker, one can be obtained by writing to Box 426, Campus mail. The name of the organization, the place and time in which it would be held (alternate if possible), and the person responsible for the meeting should be given.

The sponsors of Intelligent Faith Week will be glad to apply on behalf of a speaker to appear on its schedule, however, it may not be possible for the speaker to appear.

Intelligent Faith Week, an annual event at the University School of Religion, brings many outstanding religious leaders to the campus. Special events during the week include addresses, seminars, round tables, and classes in various fields of religious studies.

Dont Fence Me In

Even pre-registration didn't eliminate some of the long lines and "swamping" that occurred in various course buildings during the week. Faculty members had a double load of classes and schedules.

USC Awarded Science Grant

A National Science Foundation (NSF) grant of $40,000 to the University will support this semester's National Undergraduates in Mathematics, which was announced Monday.

The center mathematics institute at USC is distinctive in the area because unfortunately no students may select a course in math, science, or engineering for the first time.

Clariosophic Has Spring Election

Gina Griffin, a junior, has been elected president of Clariosophic Society for the spring semester.

Other officers elected are Joseph Brown, vice president; Thomas Smith, treasurer; Gina Plaza, secretary; Chadie Bohan, treasurer; William Rogers, sergeant at arms; and Samuel S. Benjamin, publicity director and secretary, and representative to board of publications.

New plans for expansion and programs were suggested. As initiating address will be made at the February 8 meeting at 7:00 P.M., and the spring program will be announced by the officers.

Bismuth

Bismuth was the subject of a recent chemistry experiment at the University. It was identified as being a new element by the University.

The University is preparing a list of coming events for the spring semester. Academic units and administration of the University have arranged for the University to provide the students with a list of special events from now through March.

Student organizations are also invited to send special event listings to the News Service, new or as they are scheduled. Regular meetings should be conducted unless they have a necessary aspect such as an outstanding speaker.

Regular meetings should be scheduled in a manner such as to whether the event is open to the public, or open to the public.

The Gamecock

The Gamecock is an eight-page monthly magazine published by the University of South Carolina, Columbia, South Carolina, January 12, 1965. It is published every week during the academic year and every other week during the summer. The Gamecock is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press and is distributed free to students, faculty, and staff of the University. The Gamecock is an independent publication and does not reflect the official policy of the University.

The Gamecock is produced by the School of Journalism and Mass Communication at the University of South Carolina. It is edited by the students of the School of Journalism and Mass Communication, under the guidance of the faculty. The Gamecock is not responsible for the opinions expressed in the columns of the Gamecock.

The Gamecock is published by the University of South Carolina, Columbia, South Carolina, January 12, 1965. It is published every week during the academic year and every other week during the summer. The Gamecock is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press and is distributed free to students, faculty, and staff of the University. The Gamecock is an independent publication and does not reflect the official policy of the University.

The Gamecock is produced by the School of Journalism and Mass Communication at the University of South Carolina. It is edited by the students of the School of Journalism and Mass Communication, under the guidance of the faculty. The Gamecock is not responsible for the opinions expressed in the columns of the Gamecock.

The Gamecock is published by the University of South Carolina, Columbia, South Carolina, January 12, 1965. It is published every week during the academic year and every other week during the summer. The Gamecock is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press and is distributed free to students, faculty, and staff of the University. The Gamecock is an independent publication and does not reflect the official policy of the University.

The Gamecock is produced by the School of Journalism and Mass Communication at the University of South Carolina. It is edited by the students of the School of Journalism and Mass Communication, under the guidance of the faculty. The Gamecock is not responsible for the opinions expressed in the columns of the Gamecock.

The Gamecock is published by the University of South Carolina, Columbia, South Carolina, January 12, 1965. It is published every week during the academic year and every other week during the summer. The Gamecock is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press and is distributed free to students, faculty, and staff of the University. The Gamecock is an independent publication and does not reflect the official policy of the University.

The Gamecock is produced by the School of Journalism and Mass Communication at the University of South Carolina. It is edited by the students of the School of Journalism and Mass Communication, under the guidance of the faculty. The Gamecock is not responsible for the opinions expressed in the columns of the Gamecock.

The Gamecock is published by the University of South Carolina, Columbia, South Carolina, January 12, 1965. It is published every week during the academic year and every other week during the summer. The Gamecock is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press and is distributed free to students, faculty, and staff of the University. The Gamecock is an independent publication and does not reflect the official policy of the University.

The Gamecock is produced by the School of Journalism and Mass Communication at the University of South Carolina. It is edited by the students of the School of Journalism and Mass Communication, under the guidance of the faculty. The Gamecock is not responsible for the opinions expressed in the columns of the Gamecock.

The Gamecock is published by the University of South Carolina, Columbia, South Carolina, January 12, 1965. It is published every week during the academic year and every other week during the summer. The Gamecock is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press and is distributed free to students, faculty, and staff of the University. The Gamecock is an independent publication and does not reflect the official policy of the University.

The Gamecock is produced by the School of Journalism and Mass Communication at the University of South Carolina. It is edited by the students of the School of Journalism and Mass Communication, under the guidance of the faculty. The Gamecock is not responsible for the opinions expressed in the columns of the Gamecock.

The Gamecock is published by the University of South Carolina, Columbia, South Carolina, January 12, 1965. It is published every week during the academic year and every other week during the summer. The Gamecock is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press and is distributed free to students, faculty, and staff of the University. The Gamecock is an independent publication and does not reflect the official policy of the University.

The Gamecock is produced by the School of Journalism and Mass Communication at the University of South Carolina. It is edited by the students of the School of Journalism and Mass Communication, under the guidance of the faculty. The Gamecock is not responsible for the opinions expressed in the columns of the Gamecock.

The Gamecock is published by the University of South Carolina, Columbia, South Carolina, January 12, 1965. It is published every week during the academic year and every other week during the summer. The Gamecock is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press and is distributed free to students, faculty, and staff of the University. The Gamecock is an independent publication and does not reflect the official policy of the University.

The Gamecock is produced by the School of Journalism and Mass Communication at the University of South Carolina. It is edited by the students of the School of Journalism and Mass Communication, under the guidance of the faculty. The Gamecock is not responsible for the opinions expressed in the columns of the Gamecock.

The Gamecock is published by the University of South Carolina, Columbia, South Carolina, January 12, 1965. It is published every week during the academic year and every other week during the summer. The Gamecock is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press and is distributed free to students, faculty, and staff of the University. The Gamecock is an independent publication and does not reflect the official policy of the University.

The Gamecock is produced by the School of Journalism and Mass Communication at the University of South Carolina. It is edited by the students of the School of Journalism and Mass Communication, under the guidance of the faculty. The Gamecock is not responsible for the opinions expressed in the columns of the Gamecock.