SOS: Safety or Statistic?

Students Can Avert Holiday Tragedy

BY JOANN COOK

Managing Editor

"I told them there was no way that would happen." - Ben Waddell, president of the Student Senate.

While the threat of an accident on the way to visit home for the holidays is always present, many students are unaware of the dangers behind the wheel.

The Tennessee Highway Patrol has released data indicating that approximately 10,000 people die each year in traffic crashes, with 15,000 more injured.

The Patrol recommends that students take extra precautions to ensure their safety during the holiday season.

Discount Committee Has Cards

For the first time in several years, the Student Discount Committee has produced discount cards that can be used to save on gas and other necessities.

The cards are available for purchase at the Student Union and can be used at various participating locations.

The committee is seeking new members to help with the distribution of the cards.

Language Registration

Dr. E. A. Stephen, head of the Department of Foreign Languages, is currently enrolling students who are interested in learning a new language.

The classes are held on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, and students are encouraged to sign up early.

Raelats Also To Appear

Christmas Comes To Carolina Campus

Students Pack Suitcases, Clubs Hold Holiday Events

The final weekend of 1962 will be a time of celebration for students as the University of South Carolina prepares to ring in the holiday season.

Tickets for the Christmas Dance are still available, so be sure to purchase yours before they sell out.

Charles will also be performing several songs from his latest album, "Christmas in the City," which was released earlier this year.

OtherTraditional Christmas carols will also be performed by the Carolina Chorale, as well as by other student groups.

The event is open to the public, so bring your friends and family to enjoy the festive atmosphere.

Christmas Comes To Carolina Campus

The University of South Carolina is known for its vibrant Christmas celebration, and this year is no exception.

The campus will be decorated with white lights and wreaths, and the quad will be transformed into a winter wonderland.

The campus community is invited to join in the festivities.

Baatm Beauty

The University of South Carolina is celebrating its 100th anniversary this year, and the campus is buzzing with excitement.

Students are hosting a variety of events, including a holiday market, a holiday concert, and a tree lighting ceremony.

The campus community is invited to join in the festivities.