Crucible Editor Sets New Magazine Policy

Several changes in present use for USC's literary magazine have been announced this week by Crucible editor Dan Ballin.

The editorial, "The Crucible" sets a new policy to reflect the national magazine scene in which new magazines are being published at a faster than ever rate. New magazines are being published at a faster than ever rate. New magazines are being published at a faster than ever rate. New magazines are being published at a faster than ever rate.

Dean of Men Gives Rules

With USC students preparing for their fourth week of school, there are several points in the community that need to be emphasized. In compliance with the Bruin, a dean of men, has prepared a list of rules that if a student wishes to withdraw from school, he is to be taken to the dean of his college.

Dean Lee's Rules

Students understand that attendance regulations in another college are subject to the administration, said Dean Cooper. That is the case with attendance rules, which require that each student is responsible for his own attendance record. If a student is absent for any reason, including illness or injury, the dean of men is to be notified.
