Faculty Members Discuss Economy

Appearing in the February issue of Business and Economic Review, published by the Bureau of Economic Research at the University are a series of articles by faculty members discussing South Carolina’s economic development and the prospects for the state’s economy in 1967.

Dr. Edgar E. Hickman, associate professor of Business and Economic Administration, is a member of the National Labor Relations Board. He served as president of advanced studies, Columbia University, and has written the article on economic outlook.

In his article, Dr. Hickman believes that the shadow of the nuclear industry will create collateral pip presently unknown in the generation of electricity.

Columbia Site
Of Art Meet

At the annual meeting of the Southeastern College Art Conference, held last week in Columbia, S.C., over 500 delegates from 150 colleges and universities in the southeastern United States gathered to discuss the South Carolina site for the conference to be held next March.

Dr. John G. Becker, head of the Department of Art and Design at the University of South Carolina, was elected president of BREAC for the 1967-68 year.

The art conference will meet on March 1 and 2 at the University of South Carolina campus in Columbia. The conference is sponsored by the Southeastern College Art Conference and the Department of Art and Design, University of South Carolina.
