Captains Named

Tom Dvor, a sophomore from Atlanta, and Bob Moss, a senior from Madison, New Jersey, will captivate the Gamecock in their opener against Duke.

Dietzel named a middle guard who won All-ACC honors as a sophomore linebacker last year. In the 1963 season, Moss made 56 individual tackles.

The senior middle guard has harnessed 384 pounds and has been chosen by many sportswriters to repeat his All-ACC status. His added strength should help him in the line.

Moss is a converted center who lettered last year as an offensive tackle.

He fractured his kneecap as captain of the Gamecocks' football team last spring, but his injury has completely healed.

There are 11 centers on the roster and each year one or two will be chosen as game captains by coach Murry.

The seniors are called "Black and Red" while the Junior-Intermediate and Freshmen are called "White and Blue.

An end or a middle permanent captain will be chosen.

Muir, USC Gets Canvas

By Dr. L. Dean Cofer of Blue Springs, Mo. has donated a 12-gauge, bench-loading canvas to the University of South Carolina. This gun was used during Tobacco Road's two, 2000 dollar tournaments.

The Blue Devils, Duke University, will come to Carolina Stadium tomorrow night to do battle with the Gamecocks.

It will be the opening game of the season for both teams.

First Assistant Coach Larry James named the Blue Devils at a press conference Tuesday.

"They have the best record of any team in the league," said James.

"I'm very excited about our prospects. We have the one who beat Army last year with his clutch catches," added Jones.

Duke has nine lettermen back on the team and six starters are returning to the offensive line.

The Blue Devils, All-American, has been able to distribute his team underclassmen.

"We've got some hardwalls to work with," said Coach Dietzel. "We'll be able to use tickets at all our games except for Dietzel.

Clemson's weekly newspaper, The Tiger, has an interesting roundup of how the conference race should go this year.

Of course, the Tigers were picked on top, followed by Wake Forest and N. C. State.

Virginia was next and then the team from USC. "Starting off the bottom division, which could develop into a struggle to escape the cellar, are the Gamecocks.

"Smiling Paul Dietzel is still smiling even though he welcomed back only 21 lettermen this year," says The Tiger. The Blue Devils are the first of three teams he writes up in the hills aren't doing their homework.

Their third pick, N. C. State has only 25 lettermen returning.

As a result, many sportswriters have had difficulties obtaining game programs and date tickets scheduled for their conferences.

Dietzel said the football department was "very disappointed" that the "business of distributing tickets" had not been successful this year.

He said there were two apprehensions which could help alleviate the problem in the future. The United could issue 110 cards to a student's picture and his class standing, or 10 for each class could have different colors, he said.

By Tuesday night, nearly all the 2,000 date books reserved for students had been bought. But Floyd said more date books probably would go on sale Friday and would be available to all classes.

The athletic department allotted 10,000 tickets for Carolina students, plus 2,000 date books.

Floyd also asked undergraduates who received senior or junior books to pick up their tickets according to their own class instead of the class of the book.

"Even though a student may have a senior or junior book," he said, "we wish they would fill out their tickets on the right day for their class."""
