Professors Win Fulbright Awards

Two USC professors have been designated the only awardees in the state for 1973-74 Fulbright appointments.

Dr. Richard D. Mandell, associate professor of history, and Dr. Arch G. Woodside, assistant professor of business administration, were the only Fulbright appointees among 15 candidates from five South Carolina colleges and universities.

Mandell, professor of history at USC since 1966, received a research award for work on the social history of sport. Mandell who will research at the University of Bonn, Germany, until July, 1974, has previously received national recognition for his book, "The Nazi Olympics," published in 1971.

He holds a B.A. degree from Wayne State University a M.A. from the University of Colorado; and a master of library science and Ph. D., degree from the University of California-Berkeley.

A native of Michigan, he taught at Tork University, Toronto, and was selection librarian at the University of California-San Diego before joining the USC faculty.

Lot Response Unfavorable

Response to the car pool lot located at the corner of Pickens and Pendleton streets, has been less than favorable, according to Security Director George Key.

Key said the first week, a four-day week, only 111 ears were admited during the car pool hours. This week, through Thursday, the count had risen to a disappointing 146.

"The response has definitely been unfavorable towards the car pool lot," Key said, "but the number is picking up."

Key stated that originally it was planned for the lot to be cleared each night at midnight, but it had not been enforced and many students were leaving their cars parked there overnight. He said an estimated 100 to 125 cars were being parked in the lot each night causing the lot to appear filled each morning.
