Campus police respond to 82 call box prank

By ANTHONY HODGE
Staff Writer

Staff prank calls have come in from the newly installed call boxes, but USC police department representatives do not want students to make meaningless calls.

"The yellow call boxes at various points on campus are new, and they are for emergency purposes only, and students should think twice before pressing the call box," said Capt. Wally G. and safety. They are made of aluminum, and the boxes are 31 inches high and 24 inches wide. Staff prank calls are made of aluminum, and the boxes are 34 inches high and 24 inches wide.

"We have two apprehensions in connection with call boxes, according to university police," Capt. Wally G. said. A call was made Sept. 18 after two people called the box. "The two people were reported to have somewhat heavy voices and were not speaking clearly," the police report said. The report stated that there was no indication that the boxes were damaged.

"The police report indicated that charges were brought against Bucy because he had no emergency or need for emergency police services," Capt. Wally G. said. "I just wanted to see if the box worked."

Capt. Wally G. said, "I have been concerned by the number of prank calls received and have sent a wide variety of information to the police department. The security force is not just doing it for fun, but it is doing it in the hope of educating students on the proper use of the boxes." The police department has received reports of the boxes being used as pranks during the past weeks, and police have issued warnings to students to use the boxes properly.

"The police report indicated that charges were brought against Bucy because he had no emergency or need for emergency police services," Capt. Wally G. said. "I just wanted to see if the box worked."

Capt. Wally G. said, "I have been concerned by the number of prank calls received and have sent a wide variety of information to the police department. The security force is not just doing it for fun, but it is doing it in the hope of educating students on the proper use of the boxes." The police department has received reports of the boxes being used as pranks during the past weeks, and police have issued warnings to students to use the boxes properly.

"The police report indicated that charges were brought against Bucy because he had no emergency or need for emergency police services," Capt. Wally G. said. "I just wanted to see if the box worked."

Capt. Wally G. said, "I have been concerned by the number of prank calls received and have sent a wide variety of information to the police department. The security force is not just doing it for fun, but it is doing it in the hope of educating students on the proper use of the boxes." The police department has received reports of the boxes being used as pranks during the past weeks, and police have issued warnings to students to use the boxes properly.

"The police report indicated that charges were brought against Bucy because he had no emergency or need for emergency police services," Capt. Wally G. said. "I just wanted to see if the box worked."

Capt. Wally G. said, "I have been concerned by the number of prank calls received and have sent a wide variety of information to the police department. The security force is not just doing it for fun, but it is doing it in the hope of educating students on the proper use of the boxes." The police department has received reports of the boxes being used as pranks during the past weeks, and police have issued warnings to students to use the boxes properly.

"The police report indicated that charges were brought against Bucy because he had no emergency or need for emergency police services," Capt. Wally G. said. "I just wanted to see if the box worked."

Capt. Wally G. said, "I have been concerned by the number of prank calls received and have sent a wide variety of information to the police department. The security force is not just doing it for fun, but it is doing it in the hope of educating students on the proper use of the boxes." The police department has received reports of the boxes being used as pranks during the past weeks, and police have issued warnings to students to use the boxes properly.

"The police report indicated that charges were brought against Bucy because he had no emergency or need for emergency police services," Capt. Wally G. said. "I just wanted to see if the box worked."

Capt. Wally G. said, "I have been concerned by the number of prank calls received and have sent a wide variety of information to the police department. The security force is not just doing it for fun, but it is doing it in the hope of educating students on the proper use of the boxes." The police department has received reports of the boxes being used as pranks during the past weeks, and police have issued warnings to students to use the boxes properly.